

Call for Papers

Abstracts for Short papers,
Seminars and Workshops

The Association of Women Educators

WAVE (Women in Adult & Vocational Education)

Inaugural Joint National Conference
AWE & WAVE
The Women's College
The University of Sydney
7-9 July, 2010

This national conference hosted jointly by the Association of Women Educators and WAVE (Women in Adult and Vocational Education) at The Women's College, The University of Sydney, is expected to attract 150 delegates from across Australia. It is open to everybody interested or involved in the education of women and girls and women in educational leadership. Female secondary and tertiary students are also encouraged to attend.

Reclaiming the Agenda for Women and Girls in Education Progressive Partnerships for C21

A number of themes will be explored throughout the conference. Expressions of interest and abstracts that relate to the following themes are now invited for short papers, seminars and workshops:

- Current research into the education of women and girls
- Women and educational leadership
- Working conditions for women in education
- Vocational education and training: women and girls
- Opportunities for women and girls in non-traditional areas
- Social inclusion—women and girls
- Building networks, mentoring and supporting women in education
- Work education for women and girls

Watch the AWE & WAVE websites for further details www.awe.asn.au

www.wave.org.au

Progressive Partnerships for C21

The short papers, seminars and workshops will follow plenary sessions led by nationally recognised keynote speakers. Approximately 50 minutes will be allocated for each session. Sessions may be offered more than once, depending on interest.

Abstracts should be no more than 200 words and indicate preferred format. Options include interactive workshop, information session, seminar, or roundtable. The abstracts of selected activities will be included in the conference program. Full papers will be published on the conference website. Papers can be referred where requested.

Please submit your abstract electronically by 31 March, 2010 to awe1@bigpond.net.au.